

Wayne, Sept. 27, 1887.

My Dear Mr. Fox:

Mr. George Askin one of the employees of the Mint, in the coming room I believe, while in the act of assisting in closing some of the shutters yesterday afternoon was accidentally forced to step into one of the acid baths and in consequence has had the skin almost completely exfoliated from the calf of the right leg while partially from the left. I hardly think he will be able to work any this week. If however he is able to do

I will recommend it.

He did not request me to write to you; I volunteered to do this for him.

Hoping that you and your family are well I am as ever

Yours very respectfully,
Jos. C. Egbert.

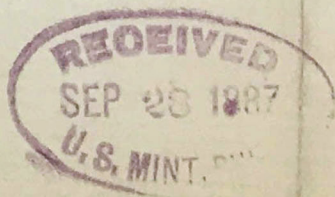

1189

Wayne, Pa.

Sept. 27. 1887

Jos. C. Egbert.

Mr George Askin
will not be able to work
this week, owing to accident yesterday.

Wayne, [Pa.]

September 27, 1887

My Dear Mr. Fox:

Mr. George Askin one of the employees of the Mint, in the Coining Room, I believe, while in the act of assisting in closing some of the shutters yesterday afternoon, was accidentally forced to step into one of the acid baths and in consequence has had the skin almost completely exfoliated from the calf of the right leg while partially from the left.

I hardly think he will be able to work any this week.

If however he is able to do, I will recommended it.

He did not request e to write you; I volunteered to do this for him.

Hoping that you and your family are well, I am as ever,

Yours very respectfully,

Joseph C. Eglert

[Abstract: Wayne, Pa. Sept. 27, 1887. Jos C. Eglert. Mr. George Askin will nt be able to work this week, owing to accident yesterday.]